THE STREAMLET.

BY JULIA TOBIN.

Away to the wood where the grave oaks grow,
And Phœbus at morning peeps modestly through—
Far under the boughs, at the valley's side,
The pearly waters right merrily glide.

Their pathway is pebbled, their borders in bloom
With the verdure of summer and beauty of June:
And the moss-robe is rich in sunny gleam
That carpets the bank of the beautiful stream.

There is food for the soul, there are charms for the eye,
Where the crystal waters go prattling by—
Where the wild flowret rears its delicate head,
All glowing and fresh from its damp, leafy bed.

Where the violet blooms in unconscious pride
In each fairy nook by the streamlet's side;
Where the summer's sunset bathes its banks
With a smile and blush for its merry pranks.

There's bloom in the forest, there's balm in the air,
For the angel of peace reigns beautiful there,
And the soul bursts her fetters while strolling quite soon
'Mid our greenwood haunts in joyous June.

I love to roam through a vale like this,
And follow the streamlet where'er it list—
For pure are the joys that gush o'er the soul
As, bidden by fancy, thus careless we roam.

THE TEACHERS' ADVOCATE.

"Compulsory Attendance."

ARTICLE NUMBER TWO.

Mr. Editor—We find in your issue of the 13th inst. an article from the Teachers' Advocate entitled "Compulsory Attendance," which appears to be intended as a reply to our article published in your issue of the 23d of May.

Were it not that the subject in controversy is one of great importance, as touching the rights and liberties of our people, we should deem it unnecessary to take any notice of their reply.

The editors of the Advocate, we trust, will pardon us for saying that we have seldom, if ever, read a controversial artical on any subject in which is to be found such a jumble of affirmations, denials and evasions, as is to be found in their reply. Of the justice of these remarks, however, the reader will judge.

The gentlemen start out by expressing surprise as to what induced us to put their head on our article. As they have failed to comprehend we fear we could not enlighten them.

We shall endeavor to notice the strong points in their reply, seriatim, notwithstanding the confused and disorderly manner in which it is put together.

First—"It starts out by asking us five or six questions which, as they are entirely irrelavent, we pass over without further remark."

Now let the reader judge as to the relevancy of these questions. Here they are:

1st. When children are irregular in their attendance, do you know whether or not the teachers take the trouble to inquire of their parents as to the cause? 2d. Is it, or is it not, obligatory on teachers to make such inquiry? 3d. If it is, are you not aware that it is seldom made? 4th. If it is not the duty of teachers to make such inquiry, how are they to know, when a child fails to attend regularly, that it is playing truant, or that its absence cannot be accounted for through a justifiable or excusable cause? 5th. Has not the teacher the right to punish a child for playing truant, as he would for any offence committed in school?

Although we are somewhat surprised that these gentlemen should hazard the assertion that these questions are entirely irrelavent, in their reply published in the Advocate, we certainly never dreamt that they would risk such an assertion in the columns of the Freeman, unless by a delay of three weeks in replying to our strictures they had hoped your readers would entirely overlook the pertinency and relevancy of these questions to the subject in controversy. Why, gentlemen, not permit the readers of the Advocate to judge as to the relevancy of these questions? Is it not an insult to their intelligence for you to decide for them, without giving them an opportunity to judge for themselves? If they are entirely irrelavent certainly it would be easy for any person of ordinary ability to show it. But let us see if they are irrelavent. Does not J. Newlin, Esq., head the "able document" which he read before the Convention of County Superintendents "Irregularity of Attendance in Schools?" Does not the whole purport of that article consist in advocating a compulsory enactment by the Legislature as the only proper remedy for the evil? Is not your article in the May number of the Teachers' Advocate headed 'Irregular Attendance?' And do you not in that article advocate a compulsory law as the best, if not the only, remedy? Will you, gentlemen, deny this? And yet in the face of your own article, and that of Mr. Newlin's, you tell your readers these five questions are entirely irrelavent! If we are not much mistaken, no intelligent reader of the Freeman will fail to comprehend that no other questions could be more pertinent and relevant to the main question at issue. Even grant that the Legislature had the right to pass compulsory laws, the expediency and policy of such laws would be extremely doubtful until it was found that the powers now in the hands of parents, teachers and school directors were inadequate. It devolved on the editors of the Advocate to defend their position by replying to these questions seriatim, endeavoring at least to show that it is impossible, or nearly so, to have regular attendance by any other means now within the power of parents, teachers and directors.

We give them credit for some foresight, if not ingeniousness, in evading a reply. Just about the time our article was published the Johnstown Democrat published in its local columns an interesting report of an exhibition in the schools in Conemaugh Borough under the superintendence of Rev. Valentine Lobmyer, O. S. B. We have not this report at hand, but if we remember correctly, it was stated that, of the large number of children attending these schools, there was but one instance of irregular attendance, and that but for a single day. Here, then, is the whole controversy about compulsory education in a nut shell. If the editors of the Advocate cannot now see the relevancy of our questions, further criticism on that point would be cruel.

Second—"We are pleased to see that 'R' admits that the Scriptures enjoin upon parents the duty of educating their children. After making such an admission, is it not strange that he should be seized with holy horror at the bare mention of an enactment intended to prevent people from setting the laws of God and the interests of mankind at defiance, by allowing their children to grow up in ignorance?" Yes, gentlemen, we certainly admit that the Scriptures enjoin on parents the duty of educating their children, and yet we deny that the Scriptures either enjoin or command parents to have their children taught even to read or write, much less do they enjoin that duty on the government. What kind of education, then, it may be asked, does the Scriptures enjoin on parents? This will be best explained by putting the question: For what purpose was men created and placed in the world? Answer: To know God, to love Him, and to serve Him, and by these means to gain everlasting life. Or, in other words: To love God and keep his commandments. Here, then, are the principle duties which devolve upon parents regarding the education of their children. Can these duties be fulfilled without learning them to read or write? Certainly they can, and have been. We know that the greater number of the Apostles were illiterate men. We know, notwithstanding they were commissioned and commanded by our Savior to teach all nations, they were not commanded to teach them by learning them to read or write, nor by reading or writing to them. But, notwithstanding, every intelligent Christian will freely admit that education, in the popular sense of the word, is of very great importance to mankind in assisting them to perform well the great ends of their creation, not to speak of the incalculable benefits to be derived from a good education in a temporal point of view, especially when these great ends are kept in the foreground.

The editors of the Advocate seem to insinuate that we did not quote them fairly, that is if we understand them, by omitting a sentence that would explain and moderate what preceded it. Here, then, is the sentence: "Of course such a law would have to be framed with much care, and should not be made too strict at first." This, to use a common phrase, is getting out of the mud and into the mire. If the gentlemen had attempted to answer any of our strictures they could have found one on this very point. We will state it again for their benefit: "But when you admit the government has the power to make the sentence one year, or less, by what right do you deny it's authority and power to make it ten or more years?" Gentlemen, do you not perceive that the very sentence, especially the part which you have italicised for our benefit, and complain of us for not quoting, admits what we said in our first article on this point. But such a law should not be made too strict at first! No, that would be bad policy, but when you find the people yield and become accustomed to it, then make it as strict as you please. Gentlemen, we have some curiosity to see how your Art of Reasoning will extricate you from this dilemma. Perhaps it is our logic is at fault. We had been taught that logic meant the right use of reason, or the art of reasoning and thinking justly. Doubtless the editors of the Advocate can teach us better.

The editors of the Advocate intimate that they do not agree with J. Newlin, Esq., in all particulars. They say: "We think the punishment he proposes is too severe." Yes, at first. Now will you be kind enough, gentlemen, to tell us in what other particular you do not agree with Mr. Newlin?

They also seem to complain that we have done some injustice to Mr. Newlin by not giving all their extract from his able document. A school director has kindly furnished us with the February number of the Pennsylvania School Journal, in which Mr. Newlin's essay is published. We have read it carefully and find that in place of doing him injustice, we have given your readers but a faint idea of the absurdities and vagaries contained in his article. He eulogizes, as we had anticipated, the attempt made to enforce his system in some towns in Massachusetts. Then he proceeds at great length with a eulogy of the Prussian system, which is known to be the most despotic in principle, if not in practice, on earth—a system which is based on the principle that the people are made for the government, not the government for the people. But the most remarkable part of his very able document is a sentence which he evidently flatters himself is conclusive of his argument in favor of compulsory education. Here it is: "If the State can enact laws to punish their children for crime, it certainly ought to have the power of preventing them from committing it, by throwing around them a kind but firm hand, and securing to them that moral and mental education necessary to lead them into the path of virtue and knowledge." This is certainly rich. Then, on Mr. Newlin's theory, if he is correct, that the government has this power, what is its duty in the premises? Why that it should appoint a policeman to watch every family night and day, lest any member should be guilty of any crime. Indeed, one policeman for each family would be entirely inadequate for that purpose. It would require a policeman for almost every individual in the State; that is, that one half of the population should act as police for the other half, and vice versa.

Here, now, gentlemen of the Advocate, is a sample of the very able document read by Jesse Newlin, Esq., before the State Convention of County Superintendents. This, too, is a portion of your extract from his essay!

We had put this question to the editors of the Advocate: "Whence does the Legislature derive its power to interfere, in the manner suggested, with parental authority?" Here is their reply: "What does 'R' mean by parental authority—allow his child to grow up in ignorance, to prey upon society? If this doctrine of the absolute control of the child by the parent is true, then parents have a perfect right to inflict upon their children whatever enormity, whether mental or physical, their passions or their whims may suggest; and the Court which condemned Lindsley for whipping his child to death rendered a verdict flagrantly opposed to natural law and the liberty of the citizen." Gentlemen, we candidly admit that when we penned that sentence we had some fears that either you might not comprehend our meaning, or make it a pretext for evading a reply, hence we wrote at the time the following sentence, but came to the conclusion afterwards to leave it out; as it might appear like an insult to the intelligence of the readers. Here it is: It is true, no one doubts the right of the Legislature to interfere when parents are guilty of barbarous or cruel treatment, for such parents would be guilty of a violation of the natural and divine law, and should the Legislature fail to pass any enactment for the protection of children against the acts of cruel and unnatural parents, the common law might prove sufficient for their protection and the punishment of the wrong doers. So much we wrote at the time. Their own admission that they did not understand what we meant proves what might be considered egotistical in us to allude to.

The fifth commandment says "Thou shalt not kill," yet every one knows that under certain circumstances we are not only justified in killing, but it is our duty to kill. Apply the logic of the editors of the Advocate to this and it will be found we are estopped from arguing that it is right to kill under any circumstances. When we say that God has entrusted the education of the child to the parents, the editors of the Advocate, according to their logic, bold that this is giving the parents absolute control to do as they please with their children, and should they disobey, whip them to death, as Rev. Joel Lindsley did. This is singular logic. Because parents in some instances prove to be brutes, the natural and divine law which entrusts the education of their children to them is a bad law, and all wrong! But the law that Jesse Newlin, Esq., and the editors of the Advocate urge is a good law, and all right, although it might prove to be as barbarous and cruel in its results as the treatment by Lindsley of his child. Let us see the distinction. Rev. Joel Lindsley, in attempting to educate his child in his way, violates the natural, the divine and the municipal law, by whipping it to death. The Legislature passes a law interfering with the natural and divine right of parents as to how and when they shall educate their children, and for a violation of this law by either parent or child, the child may be sent to a house of correction. Wherein, now, is the difference between the barbarity and cruelty of Lindsley on the one hand and the Legislature on the other? Lindsley whips his child to death, and it is relieved of its sufferings. The Legislature tears the child from its parents, its brothers and sisters, its playmates, its home, and puts it in a house of correction, to pine and die. Lindsley violates the natural, the divine and the municipal law. The Legislature violates the natural and divine law, the Constitution of our State, and the inherent and indefeasible rights of parents. Lindsley is guilty of inhuman and barbarous treatment of his child, in opposition to all laws. The Legislature sanctions almost similar treatment, and in some respects worse, under the mere semblance of law. In a word, what Lindsley is condemned for doing by every one they urge upon the Legislature to do, but in a somewhat different manner, and what, doubtless, would seem to Mr. Newlin a more refined manner, in accordance with the ideas of Christian civilization in Massachusetts and Prussia.

But let us hear them again: "We do not say that every parent must be made to send his children to the public school, or, indeed, to any school." (?) Do you remember, gentlemen, what you have said? Shall we be obliged to call the reader's attention again to the heading as well as the purport of your article? Further comment or criticism on this point might appear uncharitable.

We said that compulsory education by any government is contrary to the divine and natural laws, and a violation of the rights of parents. Why, gentlemen, do you not make an attempt to refute this? Is the reader to understand that your imperfect attempt at giving the meaning of the natural law is your reply.

But here is the most flagrant misstatement we have yet seen: "'R' maintains that the parent has a right to allow his children to grow up ignorance if he desires." Now we challenge you, gentlemen, to show your readers, by any word which we have uttered, that we asserted anything of the kind, even by implication. On the contrary, we asserted that God entrusted the education of the child to the parents, and not to the government, holding the parents responsible for a violation or omission of their duty. Let us see if we have any authority in support of this assertion. We will at present quote but two out of the many which we could furnish: Heinnicius, a distinguished jurist on natural law, says: "Parents have the right, by the law of nature, to direct the actions of their children, as being a power necessary to their proper education. It is the will of God, therefore, that parents should have and exercise that power."—Heinnicius' Clem. Jur. Nat. et Gentiem, b. II., ch. 3, sec. 52, 55. Our other authority is Judge Ellis Lewis, who was a Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Armstrong he says: "It is the right and the duty of the father not only to maintain his infant children, but to instruct their minds in moral and religious principles, and to regulate their consciences by a course of education and discipline. All interference with the parental power and duty, except by the Courts of justice, when that power is abused, is injurious to domestic subordination, and to the public peace, morals and security."

The gentlemen of the Advocate endeavor to show that our method of reasoning is bad, because we hold that if the government has the right to compel attendance at school, it can compel the people to attend a particular church. They say: "Now we beg to remind him that the Constitution of the State forbids interference in religious matters." Yes, and we beg to remind them that the Constitution of our State also forbids any deprivation of the personal liberty of the citizen unless for crime, an attempt to commit crime, or in case of absolute necessity, when the public good demands it. And we also beg to remind them that the right of parents (as we have shown) to educate their children, is an inherent and indefeasible right which existed before any government, and which no government has the right to take from them, no matter whether that right be secured in its Constitution or not. They also remind us that the Constitution does not deprive the Legislature of the power to legislate in regard to education, but, on the contrary, says the Legislature shall provide for the establishment of schools. Granted. But where is the power given in the Constitution to compel parents to send their children to school, or to have them educated?

We would respectfully suggest to the editors of the Advocate to turn their attention to our strictures, in our former article, and endeavor to refute them. We expect them to do this not by misstatements, but by full and fair quotations from us, so the reader may understand the points at issue. If they do this we shall not complain as to how many papers they may use in replying. R.

A MATRIMONIAL PROPOSITION.—We yesterday overheard—unintentionally of course—a bit of matrimonial conversation, which we hope the parties interested will excuse us for repeating.

A young man, laboring on a farm not many miles from this city, brought the daughter of his employer into town to see the circus. On arriving in the city, they proceeded to one of our best refreshment halls, and were soon seated in one of those cozy recesses provided for the accommodation of hungry mortals. The good things of the establishment were ordered and disposed of by the inmates. There conversation was running largely upon the subject of matrimony, and the young man proposed that they proceed forthwith and be "united." The lady replied: "How can I marry you, John? you are very poor, and father is wealthy and very proud." "Pride be blest," exclaimed John, "may I never ride another horse to water if I wouldn't marry you if he was worth a million, and would give us half of it." There was a sound, as if a horse's hoof had been pulled out of the mud, and the lovers were happy. Wealthy, but proud farmers, who have marriageable daughters and a young man in their employ named John, will take notice.—Sandusky Register.

LORD BUCKINGHAM was once at dinner where a Mr. Grubb was invited to sing. He begged to be excused, urging that he did not know what to sing. "Sing 'I'd be a butterfly,'" suggested the nobleman.

STORY OF A BASKET.

The other day a well-known and respectable young lady of the upper crust in St. Louis, intending to attend at a picnic, bought a nice large basket at Warne & Cheever's, and so as to be able to identify property, had it sent home bearing a large card on which the young lady's name was written in a bold, legible hand. The day of the picnic the basket was filled with delicacies for the occasion, and faithfully performed its offices, and was promptly recognized by the large card and name thereon as the property of the fair picnickian. In due time it was emptied of its palatable contents, and was not filled as were the baskets of old, but was made the receptacle of dirty knives and forks, empty dishes and soiled napkins. Tired and weary with the pleasures of the day, the party returned to the city in the evening, when several of them, including our heroine, stepped into the ice-cream saloon to regale themselves with viands à la Russian Possessions. Depositing her basket in a corner, our lady friend thought no more of it until the party was leaving, when basket, name or fragments, could nowhere be found. It had been stolen. Giving it up as lost, she thought no more of the basket, but returned to her paternal roof and was soon dreaming a lover's dream of the day previous. Imagine Miss ——'s surprise on reading the announcement in the morning paper the next day, informing the public that a basket had been found on the steps of a prominent gentleman's residence, to which was attached a card bearing the young lady's name, and in which was a fine bouncing baby a few days old.

A terrible consternation spread throughout the household of the basketless young lady. Blood and revenge was loudly talked of, when an "explanation ensued," and the newspapers were requested to, and did announce the next day, the facts as above stated, which is satisfactory to all concerned; we suppose, as it seems that the young lady owned the basket and card, but not the baby.—Springfield (Ill.) Register, June 21.

A HUMANE lady in the west of Ohio, during the rush of contrabands thither, took pity on a poor ragged boy of a decidedly dark complexion, and gave him a home in her family. After being decently clothed Jack was happy, and soon as fat as a prize-pig. The good woman was pleased with her success, and all went on swimmingly till one day she heard him use the Lord's name in any thing but a reverent manner. Calling Jack to her, she proceeded to lecture him upon the enormity of the deed, telling him he must certainly go to Tophet, unless he stopped swearing. "What kind ob a place am dat?" "It is a lake of fire and brimstone." "Fiar and brimstone, Missus?" "Yes, and you will be put into it and burned forever and ever." "But poor Jack burn all up, Misses?" "No, you won't; you'd keep burning, and never be consumed." "But I neber could stand it." "You will have to stand it," replied the woman, something at a loss for words to make him understand her meaning. "Well," replied the juvenile contraband, "if I kin stand it, Missus, I don't care for hell-fiar or brimstone eder."—St. Clairsville Gazette.

A RAILROAD HERO.—The heroism of a draw-tender, Dennis Colgan, prevented a most frightful accident at the East Bridgeport (Conn.) bridge, on Friday. The draw had been open to let a schooner pass, the ball was down, and the bridge some fifteen feet out of place when the train came in sight, and pushed along at the usual speed, the engineer not seeing the signal, and knowing nothing about it till within twenty feet of the draw. By the greatest exertion the bridge was swung into place, but as the track strikes the draw at a strong curve on the west side, a train coming on it from that direction would inevitably swing it open unless it was locked. Knowing this, Colgan ran across the bridge in the face of the advancing train, and in spite of the cries of the spectators, and dropping in front of the engine, succeeded in locking the bridge with about an inch of the bar, and sliding to the platform below. So narrow was his escape in performing this heroic deed that all thought he had been crushed to death beneath the wheels of the car.

THERE is a whole sermon in the saying of the Persian: "In all thy quarrels leave open the door of reconciliation." It should never be forgotten.

WHY is a prosy preacher like the hub of a wheel? Because the fellows around him are tired.

The names of Messrs. John A. Blair, of Ebensburg, Jas. B. M'Creight, of Johnstown, and John Porter, of Washington township, were then offered in connection with the office of Sheriff, and on the first ballot Mr. Blair was chosen as the nominee, the vote being as follows: Blair 37, M'Creight 19, Porter 13.

The next in order was the selection of a candidate for County Treasurer, for which office Joseph M'Donald and H. Kinkead, of Ebensburg, Michael M'Colgan, of Wilmore, and John Cox, of Conemaugh borough, were named. Three ballots were taken before a choice was made, the vote standing:

First Ballot.

Jos M'Donald,	11	Mich'l M'Colgan,	17
H Kinkead,	16	John Cox,	23

The name of Joseph M'Donald was withdrawn, and the Convention proceeded to the Second Ballot.

H Kinkead,	13	Mich'l M'Colgan,	24
		John Cox,	32.

There still being no choice a third ballot was ordered, with the following result:

Third Ballot.

H Kinkead,	5	Mich'l M'Colgan,	24
		John Cox,	40.

Mr. Cox was thereupon declared the nominee of the Convention for County Treasurer.

The nomination for Co. Commissioner being next on the list, John A. Kennedy, of Carroll, Jos. Criste, of Washington, Francis O'Friel, of Loretto, Simon P. Dunmyer, of Jackson, Ed. M'Glade, of Summerhill, W. A. Makin, of Blacklick, and Wm. J. Williams and Fred. Kittell, of Ebensburg, were proposed as suitable incumbants for that position, and the Convention proceeded to ballot, with the result given below:

First Ballot.

Jno A Kennedy,	27	Wm J Williams,	5
Joseph Criste,	2	Edw M'Glade,	6
Francis O'Friel,	19	W A Makin,	4
S P Dunmyer,	7	Fred Kittell,	1

The names of Messrs. M'Glade, Makin and Kittell being withdrawn, the delgates were again called and their votes footed up thus on the Second Ballot.

Kennedy,	34	O'Friel,	28
Criste,	1	Dunmyer,	7
		Williams, 4.

No decision having yet been arrived at, Messrs. Criste, Dunmyer and Williams were withdrawn from the contest, and the Convention then proceeded to the Third Ballot.

Kennedy,	39	O'Friel,	30

Mr. Kennedy having received the highest number of votes, was announced as the candidate for County Commissioner, after which the delegates were called on to propose the names of one or more suitable persons from whom to select a candidate for Jury Commissioner. In this connection, R J. Lloyd and George Gurley, of Ebensburg, John Bearer, of Susquehanna, Geo. Walters, of White, and John Buck, of Carrolltown, were named and voted for as follows:

First Ballot.

Lloyd,	4	Bearer,	7
Gurley,	19	Walters,	11
		Buck, 23.

No choice, and the names of Messrs. Lloyd and Bearer being erased from the tally list, the following was the result on

Second Ballot.

Gurley,	16	Walters,	19
		Buck, 27.

Being still undecided, the name of Mr. Gurley was withdrawn, and a third ballot being ordered the result was:

Third Ballot.

Walters,	21	Buck,	42

Mr. Buck was thereupon declared the nominee for Jury Commissioner.

Christian Snyder, of Jackson, Henry Walters, Wm. P. Patton and George W. Osborne, of Johnstown, H. O'Hara, of Munster, and John D. Thomas and Isaac Crawford, of Ebensburg, were then presented for the suffrage of the Convention for the position of Poor House Director. The names of the delegates were then called and their votes recorded on

First Ballot.

Snyder,	15	Patton,	4
Walters,	7	Thomas,	28
O'Hara,	9	Osborne,	1
		Crawford, 2.

The names of Messrs. Patton, Osborne and Crawford were then withdrawn, and on

Second Ballot,

Snyder had	17	O'Hara had	8
Walters "	9	Thomas "	32

No one of the gentlemen named having a majority of all the votes cast, another ballot was entered into, after the withdrawal of Mr. O'Hara's name, and the following was given as the result:

Third Ballot.

Snyder,	26	Walters,	3
		Thomas, 37.

The name of John D. Thomas was accordingly announced as candidate for Poor House Director.

The nominations for Auditors and Coroner were then made by acclamation, E. D. Evans, of Croyle, being chosen for Auditor for the term of three years, John F. Allen, of Yoder, for one year, and J. A. Harrold, of Johnstown, for Coroner.

The names of Capt. H. D. Woodruff and James Potts, Esq., of Johnstown, and Philip Collins, Esq, of Ebensburg, were then suggested for Delegate to the State Convention, and on the first ballot Woodruff received 22 votes, Potts 15, and Collins 23. Mr. Potts then withdrew his name, and on second ballot Mr. Woodruff was chosen Delegate, the vote standing: Woodruff 30, Collins 23.

Messrs. James Potts, of Johnstown, Isaac Wike, of Wilmore, and M. M. Adams, of Washington township, were selected Conferees by acclamation, and R. L. Johnston, Esq., of Ebensburg, was chosen in like manner Chairman of the Democratic County Committee.

After suggesting the name of one person from each district as member of the County Committee, the Convention adjourned, after a most pleasant and harmonious session of four hours duration, and after placing in nomination a ticket in every way worthy the confidence and support of the Democracy of Cambria county.

—Of nine negroes arrested for the murder of Mr. John Golden, a merchant of Warwick County, Virginia, on the 2d of December last, three have made their escape, one has been acquitted, and five have been sentenced to be hanged.

—A freedman in Texas proved a claim of $150 for wages against his master, but a negro jury would allow him only $110, on the ground that they knew him to be "a trifling, lazy scoundrel," and not worth what his employer agreed to give him.

—Radical organs claim credit for Judge Williams because he studied law with that distinguished "copperhead," Judge Lowry. To make anything out of any of their candidates the Rads are always compelled to hunt up Democratic roots.

—A raft passed Memphis, Tennessee, last week, which would, if placed on dry land, cover over one and a half acres of ground. It was composed of 527 tiers, averaging each 50 feet, and containing in all about 1,400,000 square feet of finely seasoned cypress.

—The Philadelphia Ledger says: One Col. Schumaker has just died in the lunatic asylum, who is reported to have first discovered coal in this State in 1811. The people had no faith in his discovery, and after losing a large fortune, he spent the last twenty-one years of his life in the asylum.

It was her first trial of Yankee institutions, and illustrates the ruling passion.

—Forney, writing from England, says: "You would be astonished to find how Charles Sumner is admired here." Sidney Smith used to say: "If you examine a blue-bottled fly with a microscope, you will find its body covered with ugly little parasites, who believe their own particular fly the bluest, grandest, merriest in the universe." Sumner is Forney's blue-bottled fly.

—In Norway and Sweden there is reported to be a perfect mania on the subject of emigration. All who can gather together a sufficient sum to pay their passages to America make a start. They go chiefly to Minnesota and other parts of the Northwest. The people of the United States will always welcome the poor and dissatisfied of other lands. There are millions of broad and fertile acres that need cultivation.

—A young clerk, J. C. Loutee, of Greenfield, Ohio, who has long been suffering with a peculiar pain in his stomach, giddiness and dimness of vision, was relieved, a few days since, through the agency of a strong purgative, of a living snake seventeen and a half inches in length, and about three-fourths of an inch in diameter at the largest part of the body. He says in June, 1864, he remembers, while drinking from a brook, he swallowed something unusual, but paid no attention to it at the time.

It is sent free by mail, for that price—20 Cents.

The man spoken of in our last as having been foully dealt with near Black Log Station, on the P. R. R., still lies at the Patterson House, in Patterson, but is recovering slowly. He is a German, gave his name as Wm. Carlos, and says his companions, after assaulting, robbed him of $200.

A young woman with an infant in her arms got off a passenger train at Mill Creek, Huntingdon county, a few days since, and entering a hotel there, deposited the "little responsibility" on a settee, remarking that she wished to be absent a few minutes, stepped out and got on the train again, since when nothing has been learned of her whereabouts. The infant has been adopted by a family in the neighborhood.

READ the following letter from Richard L. Franklin, Esq., President of the Yonkers and New York Fire Insurance Co.:

Office Yonkers and New York Fire Ins. Co., New York, October 13th, 1866.

I take pleasure in certifying to the prompt payment by the Hartford Live Stock Insurance Company for the loss by sudden death, of a very valuable Cow on my farm at Riverdale, insured in that Company. This animal (in connection with my other stock) was insured in the Hartford Live Stock Insurance Company, on the 8th inst. and died on the third day thereafter from a violent inflammatory attack, though apparently well the day previous. I received a draft for the amount from the Company without any discount, by the next mail after forwarding information of the loss. I cheerfully recommend the Hartford Live Stock Insurance Company, and would advise owners of live stock to insure therein, for my own experience demonstrates most conclusively that "delays are dangerous."

RICHARD L. FRANKLIN.

THE LATEST AND BEST NEWS is that R. H. Singer, who, upon his entree into our town, reduced the price of horse-shoeing one-third, has determined still to lead the van, and offers to work 10 per cent. lower than the lowest for cash, and insures satisfaction. Persons needing tire on their wagons or carriages, can save dollars by giving him their work. "A dollar saved is a dollar gained," and the way to save many of them is to get your blacksmithing done with Mr. Singer, at the west end of town. Mr. S. is also selling I. C. Singer's unequalled Tire and Band Bender—a machine which saves a great amount of time and labor and bends the Tire round and true—of which Wm. Myers, of Altoona, says he would not take $100 and do without. Any amount of testimony just like that can be shown, but the machine is its own best recommendations to a mechanic. Persons wishing to purchase should call on or address R. H. SINGER, Ebensburg.

THE CAMBRIA FREEMAN.

THURSDAY, : : : JULY 4, 1867.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

APOLOGETIC.—We are free to confess that the present number of the Freeman does not maintain its reputation for variety and local interest, but when it is borne in mind that we have found it impossible to come to time, owing to duties pertaining to the County Convention, and that the 4th of July is upon us, when relaxation of mind and body are both for a time demanded, we know that our readers will excuse all deficiencies.

ST. FRANCIS' COLLEGE.—We had the pleasure of being present at the annual exhibition of this institution, on Tuesday, the 25th ult., and deem a short notice of the proceedings due to the readers of the FREEMAN.

The morning wore a very doubtful aspect —hazy and unpromising. Alternating sunshine and shower gave the advancing day the charm of variety. It was, indeed, as coquettish a morning as could be imagined. Finally the rain god triumphed, and gave a damper to the expectations of all concerned. However, the rain was in a degree anticipated, for the greater part of the crowd was under roof before it commenced. The large barn on the premises, near the Monastery, had been fixed upon for the exhibition. Thither we repaired, and found a large number already assembled.

The exhibition room was very appropriately festooned with evergreens; ample accommodations had been provided for all, with a platform at one side for the Rev. clergy.

We noticed upon the stand Very Rev. T. Mullen, of Pittsburgh, Revs. Ward, Phelan and others, of the same city, Rev. Mitchell, of Manchester, and Rev. Pollard, of Birmingham, (our former beloved pastors,) Rev. Tracy, of Huntsville, Ala., Rev. Walsh, of Sugar Creek, Rev. Hackett, of Wilmore, Rev. Christy, of Ebensburg, Rev. Burns, of St. Augustine, Revs. Ryan and Murphy, of Summit, Rev. Tuigg, of Altoona, Rev. Farrin, of Tyrone, Rev. Hughes, of Dudley, and others not recollected. The venerable pastor of Loretto, Mr. Reynolds, also appeared on the platform, and was congratulated on his convalescing from his recent dangerous illness.

After the opening chorus from Hernani, the Salutatory was delivered by Master J. F. Marley, and was a truly creditable effort. After an interval, during which sweet music was discoursed by the orchestra, the tragedy of "George Barnwell" was introduced, and while all the dramatis personæ was well sustained, we must award the palm to Master J. McNamee, in the character of Milwood, who certainly exhibited tragic powers of a very high order.

A Duett was next performed, after which a very well written essay on Education was read by Master J. F. Rourke. Then followed a chorus from the Italian, the rendering of which brought down the house, or the barn, rather.

A very creditable address on the subject of "Monastic Institutions" was delivered by Master E. I. O'Conner, showing a depth of thought far beyond the years of the young speaker.

But the farce, "Turn Him Out," was the grand feature of the occasion, and while Masters Anderson, Dempsy, Boyd and McCullough all bore their respective characters with much spirit, still M'Namee, in "Elegant Roseleaf," was the main attraction.

After the farce was over, the Baledictory, a very chaste and beautiful production by J. Schoonmaker, closed the exhibition, when Very Rev. T. Mullen, of Pittsburgh, in an extemporaneous address, full of classic thoughts and practical suggestions, responded to the closing address.

Children, parents, friends and spectators were all delighted at the success of the exhibition, and the very pious and zealous Professor at the head of the institution, as well as the good Brothers who have the school in charge, were to some extent rewarded for their arduous labors by the plaudits of all in attendance.

After the ceremonies were closed a splendid dinner was spread at the Monastery, where the good things of the season were partaken of by the numerous clergy and visitors, after which all departed for their respective homes, well pleased with the future prospects of the College of St. Francis.

HARVEST HOME.—When the harvest is over Rev. Mr. Christy of this place has engaged to provide the young and old with a couple of days of real true recreation and amusement in shape of a Harvest Home, at which time three valuable articles will be drawn by chances, viz: The celebrated little Gem, a first class American watch, and a superior black silk dress. An opportunity will be afforded to invest in the above articles from this time until the third day of September, which has been fixed upon as the opening day of the festival. Ample arrangements will be made to render the occasion one of interest and pleasant recreation, and while all participants will have full opportunity for enjoying themselves, the enjoyment will be heightened by the knowledge that a good cause will be aided by this interesting and commendable festival.

WILL BE CLOSED.—The following named merchants and business men of Ebensburg have mutually agreed to keep their respective places of business closed throughout to-day, July 4th: A. A. Barker, V. S. Barker, J. M. Thompson, R. J. Lloyd, H. A. Shoemaker & Co., Andy M'Guire, C. T. Roberts, R. Roberts, Geo. Huntley, Lloyd & Co., J. D. Thomas, John O. Evans, Jos. Zolner, Jr.

THE return game of base ball between the Mountain club of Altoona and the Mountaineer club of this place, will be played on the grounds of the former on this (4th of July) afternoon. Quite a large delegation of admirers of the national game will accompany the Mountaineer boys from this place, to witness the game and see the many other sights Altoona offers on this occasion.

A valuable horse belonging to the estate of Francis Glosser, late of Carroll township, this county, dec'd, was gored by a bull, a few days since, and killed.

EDITORIALITIES, LOCAL AND GENERAL.—

The Evansville "Sentinel on the Border" has been removed to Niles City, Michigan.

Our young friend, Ed. James, is local editor of the Cardington (Marion Co., Ohio,) Republican.

Our former townsman, Col. R. A. M'Coy, and his estimable lady, were in town last week—the guests of A. C. Mullin, Esq.

A grey eagle was shot near the village of Fostoria, Blair county, recently, which measured seven feet from tip to tip of wings.

On the 22d of June the body of an unknown man was found hanging by the neck, on the bank of the Monongahela, in Fayette county.

The Rump Congress is to meet again during the present month to the great burden of the taxpayers and the general disgrace of the country.

A valuable bay horse belonging to Joseph Klingensmith, was stolen from a pasture field about one mile west of Greensburg, one night recently.

Judge Taylor, who should have been nominated for the Supreme Court by the radical Convention, received only nine votes in that body. Somebody sold him.

Monoghan, the man who wrecked the passenger train on the Pennsylvania Railroad near Latrobe on the 7th April, has been adjudged insane and sent to an asylum.

Mrs. Mary Taggart Slagle, late Miss Mary Taggart, of Hollidaysburg, died at Pittsburgh recently. She was an accomplished and amiable lady—beloved by all who knew her.

John Scott, Esq., was President of the radical Convention—and made a speech. Our friend gets empty honors, but is too honest to get a position of profit to himself, or usefulness to the people.

A drunken beast at Latrobe, named Davis, stabbed an old gentleman, Mr. M'Cartney, the other day, so that his life was jeopardized. Jealousy was the ostensible, drunkenness the real, cause.

John Gilchrist, of Ludwick, Westmoreland county, was struck by a freight engine near that place, not long since, and thrown over an embankment. One of his arms was broken and shoulder and elbow dislocated.

A young lad named Thomas Fitzpatrick fell into a large swill-tub, at Moore's still-house, in Westmoreland county, on the 18th, and was so severely scalded by the boiling liquid it contained that he died in about four hours after the accident.

Owing to a press of other business that could not be evaded or postponed, we have found it impossible thus far to peep between the covers, much less review, Mr. Elder's volume of poems, "My Gift." Hope to be able to do so in our next.

The family of Daniel Buser, who was hanged in this place a year ago, is a complete wreck. Mrs. Buser is a maniac at Dixmont. A son is an inmate of the County Poor House, and is also subject to fits of insanity. The Pittsburgh papers announce that last week this son, in a fit of insanity, escaped from the Poor House, but was afterwards captured and sent back. So says the Alleghanian.

The horse taken up by John Naglo on last Saturday week, says the Indiana Democrat, was claimed on Monday last by Mr. John B. Hoover, who resides near Martinsburg, Blair county. The horse was stolen from his pasture lot on the night of the 13th inst., by a scoundrel named Jesse Slick of Bedford county, who passed himself off as a soldier. Slick is a small man in size, with a light mustache, and one arm off above the elbow. It is a great pity that he should escape punishment.

RAIL ROAD INCIDENT.—Through the politeness of Samuel Craig, Esq., we are put in possession of the following: "On the 26th June our place was thrown into some excitement in this wise: It appears that parties on the cars between Cresson and Gallitzin obtained $900 from an old gentleman, and at Gallitzin attempted to escape with their booty. The alarm was soon raised that the money had been stolen from him. Dr. S. S. Christy, with others, made chase, and after a considerable heat overhauled two men and obtained the money from them. They were brought before Esq. Craig, and it appearing from the statement of Dr. Christy that one of the men gave up the money, and the old man stating that he loaned the money in good faith, that he was to get it again at Altoona, and that the parties did not really steal it, no further proceedings were taken in the matter. So the old man, having got his money through the assistance of Dr. Christy, the parties treated each other and went on their way rejoicing—the one that he had got his money, the others, no doubt, that they had escaped prosecution."

A MASTERPIECE.—One of the finest works of art in its way that our county can boast, has recently been set up in the grave yard at St. Augustine by Mr. James Wilkinson, of Loretto. We are assured that it is one of his best efforts, although but a simple tombstone, and can well conceive that it is a fine piece of work, as Mr. Wilkinson has no superior, we venture to say, as a manufacturer of monuments, tombstones, &c., anywhere in the country. The work he has put up throughout the county is evidence sufficient of this fact, and no one who needs anything in the marble line can do better than patronize him.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH is not to be commemorated in our town by any general celebration, and very many of our people design going elsewhere to enjoy the festivities of the occasion. Our friend James Thompson, in common with a majority of the merchants here, will "close shop" on that day, but on Friday down will come the shutters, and customers can continue to call and get bargains in dry goods, dress goods, notions, etc., as usual. Large additions have been made to Jim's stock, and all tastes can now be gratified at unusually low prices.

STILL OPEN.—There is still a fine opening for the advantageous investment of spare "stamps" at the cheap mercantile mart of Mills & Davis, on High street, where buyers will find a full and unsurpassed line of all shades, textures and qualities of goods, in endless variety.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

JOHNSTOWN, JULY 1, 1867.

Dear Freeman—A negro about 18 years of age, named Marshall Lindsay, made a dastardly and diabolical attempt to outrage the person of a married lady residing in this town, on Monday last. This lady had been out to visit her parents, who reside a few miles south of town, and on her return, when within about a mile of this place, the negro Lindsay jumped from behind a fence, with his person exposed, and gave chase to the alarmed woman. Fear lent wings to her flight, and she succeeded in reaching a neighboring house, thus escaping from the lecherous villain. Upon her arrival in town she made information against the negro, who was immediately arrested, and after a hearing, committed to jail to answer for attempted rape. This interesting "smoked yankee" belongs to a family who resided for some time near Whisky Springs, and whose paternal progenitor set him a very moral example by keeping a colored mistress in the same house with his lawful wife. Their frequent family jars induced several of the neighbors to wait on them with the information that their domestic broils were becoming a source of annoyance, and that they would generously allow them twenty-four hours to dispense with the extra wench or leave the neighborhood. I presume the ties of affection, &c., were too strong between the colored frail one and Lindsay, Sr., for within the time specified they took their departure and moved to town. Since then Lindsay, Jr., has been trying his hand as above stated.

A little son of Mr. P. Shanahan, whilst playing, one day last week, on the Woodvale bridge with several youthful companions, accidently fell off into the river, severely fracturing his arm. The broken bone was set and the little fellow is doing well.

Four pic-nics came off in this vicinity on Saturday last, and brisk engagements took place at three of them. Everything passed off very pleasantly at the I. B. B. Co.'s picnic until just about five o'clock, when a young man approached two others who were talking over private affairs, and told them he didn't wish any more of that talk; answer was given that "they were able to take care of their own affairs, and didn't wish a snob to dictate to them." The young man's dignity couldn't stand the appellation of "snob," and having a large whip in his hand he immediately struck a murderous blow at one of the parties, striking him across the neck and knocking him insensible. Information of assault and battery, with intent to kill, was made against him, and he was held in the sum of $600 bail to answer the charge. I did not get an official report of the other battles, but understand that no one was seriously injured.

Although last Saturday was pay day, and quite a number of inebriates were dodging 'round, only four were placed in durance vile. The caged quartette were permitted to walk forth the next morning, after making a deposit of three dollars each in the acting Burgess' hands.

Council failed to elect a Burgess on Tuesday last, the vote standing: Kopelin, 5; W. H. Rose, 4; and the rest scattering. After a stormy session, slightly participated in by outsiders, Council incontinently adjourned to try it again next meeting.

Two excellent concerts came off Friday and Saturday nights of last week, in the M. E. Church. Miss Luchardt and Miss Crawford of this place, and Miss Scriba, an amateur opera singer of Pittsburgh, were the principal performers. A strawberry festival was held in connection with the concert, and as both exhibitions were well patronized, a large sum was doubtless realized.

The work of demolition on the old Company store buildings has been commenced. The dry goods now occupy one of the handsomely finished rooms in the new building, and the grocery department, &c., will be immediately removed to the commodious rooms assigned them. I would like to give your readers a description of this mammoth store building, but from its immensity I fear I would have to drop the subject, as my friend "Mack" elegantly observes, like a hot turnip.

The pier and abutments for the new Woodvale car bridge are approaching completion. The bridge is being built by a Pittsburg firm, and will be erected as soon as the masons finish the stone work. I understand the new structure will be used only as a car bridge for the accommodation of the C. I. Co.

The Westmoreland B. B. Club of Greensburg will play the Independent, of this place, a match game on the grounds of the latter, on Friday next. SKU BAL.

ALTOONA, JUNE 24, 1867.

Friend Mac—I had no idea, when I penned my letter to you of the 10th inst., that it would have the effect of stirring up such a nest of hornets as are now on the wing and buzzing about in all directions. My candid statement of facts seems to have fallen like a bombshell among the guilty, rebellious spirits who were endeavoring to mar the harmony and good feeling which all should wish to characterize the celebration of the coming Fourth, and as a consequence "T. I. M." has came in for a good share of denunciation and misrepresentation. In the communication referred to I endeavored to give a fair and truthful statement of the situation of affairs at that time, and took occasion to condemn the efforts a few were making, in opposition to the will and wishes of many soldiers and citizens in regard to the dedication of the soldiers' monument, and I appeal to every candid man, be he a soldier or a citizen, whether I did not state the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. But the communication in question was no sooner read by these "trooly loil" boys than they had flaming posters, signed by a worthy captain, put up on every corner, announcing that there were, traiters in the camp, and calling on the faithful to assemble immediately, if not sooner, at their headquarters, fully equipped, &c. At the time specified a motley crowd of malcontents, with indignant rage pictured on their features, assembled at the derignated place, and after sitting for a time in deep meditatoin, a Colonel by brevet and a bravado by nature arose as majestic as a goose, and after a few forcible remarks, offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, That in the article published in the Cambria Freeman of the 13th inst. we see the picture of a liar, coward and traitor, and deem the author beneath the notice of the soldiers of the late war."

The Colonel breathed easier after he had this load off his stomach, and his colleagues all felt that they were out of danger. I think the Colonel must have been contemplating his own character, in a mirror, as it were, when he drew up that resolution, as it is certainly a most striking pen picture of the illustrious author. To call a man a liar without one scintilla of proof, is certainly characteristic of a "trooly loil" bum. "And a coward!" Oh, dear, how refreshing, in this hot weather, to be called a coward by the brave fellows who, through fear (of the draft), went to the army. "And unworthy the notice of a soldier!" Oh, pahaw, Colonel, you dont say so! You are only playing your pranks now—only jesting. I can't conceive that it would be any special honor to associate with the gentleman—I beg your pardon—the being who drew the picture of himself in the resolution above given.

What, I pray, was there in my letter of the 10th at which any true soldier could take offence? Certainly not because I used the classic language of that renowned General of seventy battles—on paper—Gov. Geary, when I spoke of some of the soldiers engaged in the monument rebellion as "stewards, chaplains, army contractors," &c.; and most assuredly not when I said that many of them were as brave soldiers as ever went to battle. In both cases I expressed my own convictions and the convictions of nine-tenths of this community, and no soldier worthy of the name will deny it.

I was sorry to see the name of a certain Captain appended to that resolution, because he alleged, in presence of the writer of this article, that there was nothing in my communication that any true soldier could object to. He ought to define his position, and not be one thing one day and another the next. But I defy the whole "caboodle" to prove the assertions they have made.

I will now pay my respects, in very few words, to a communication in the Pittsburgh Commercial of the 20th inst., signed "M," which, I presume, is the initials of the writers true name—Mule. "M" starts out by saying that he speaks in the name of 1400 "boys in blue." What a lie-kely story! If he had substracted 1394 from the number he would have approximated nearer the truth. He further says that it was Prof. Miller who first originated the idea of building a monument. That may be true, but when he says the Professor is a staunch Republican he lies—under a mistake. The Professor is no party man, and votes as often with the Democrats as with the Republicans, and hence the idea of building a monument did not originate with the Republican party, or a member, strictly speaking, of that party. This "M"(ule) still further asserts that "T. I. M." insinuates that there is not one soldier in twenty who can show an honorable discharge. This is another lie-kely story. I neither said nor insinuated any thing of the kind. He also says that those who have not honorable discharges belong to that defunct convocation, the Democratic party. How do you like that, white "boys in blue," coming as it does from a special friend and defender? He also charges that "T. I. M." called all the "boys in blue" bummers, hospital stewards, &c. This is an unqualified and malicious mistake, and nobody but a "M"(ule) would be guilty of so gross a perversion. I'll bet, however, my old straw hat against a peeled potato that if "M" examines his discharge papers he will find the "dis" written in capital letters. But I have wasted enough ink on this "M"(ule), and all that need further be said of him is that

He heaved and pitched, and pitched and heaved,
And up his rudder flung,
And the more he pitched and heaved.
The greater lie he spun.

Yours, &c., T. I. M.

THERE is no night so dark as to prevent the approach of coming day, no storm so furious as to hinder the return of warm sunshine, nor no pocket-book so deficient of greenbacks as to preclude the possibility of buying at the cheap cash store of H. A. Shoemaker & Co., where special inducements in stock and prices are now attracting general attention. Harry is not to be outdone in variety of merchandise, undersold in prices, or surpassed in the desire to please.

LET the family table be always a meeting place of plasantness, affection and peace, as it cannot well fail to be if the man of the house buys the things to put on it from V. S. Barker, on High street, who keeps a choice stock of fresh groceries and provisions in connection with one of the best and cheapest assortments of general merchandise this market affords. No one who desires to practice economy should fail to visit Mr. Barker's establishment.

"A THING OF BEAUTY is a joy forever," and if there is anything to surpass in beauty the fine stock of jewelry and fancy goods that C. T. Roberts now offers for the inspection and purchase of the public, we confess we have failed to see it. If you would be convinced of this fact step in and examine his assortment. Goods shown with pleasure and sold at reasonable prices.

MARRIED.

At Latrobe, Pa., on the 25th ult., by Rev. J. Kearney, Mr. JOHN M'BRIDE, of Monastery Hill, and Miss KATE M'GOUGH, of the former place.

So it seems that with Kate 'twas easy enough,
By retaining the Mac, to dispense with the Gough,
Since 'twas her ambition, as well as her pride,
To consent to become John's dear little (Mac) Bride.

And don't it seem strange, in this wedding affair,
That the two Macs and two Brides make but one pair:
But more odd still it is, in law or in fun,
That of the whole party there is but the one.

Now hoping that John and his dear little wife
May happily glide down the smooth stream of life,
And that once in a while, or as often as maybe,
She will make him a present of a plump little ——.

I remain theirs,
MORDECAI.

LATE NEWS ITEMS.

—The cost of prosecuting Lindsley, the child-whipper, was two thousand dollars; and as his fine was only two hundred and fifty dollars, it is suggested that it would have been cheaper and better for the country to have paid him the seventeen hundred and fifty dollars and saved the farce of a trial.

—Work has been resumed on the magnificent Roman Catholic Cathedral, on Fifth avenue, New York, projected by Archbishop Hughes, the corner stone of which was laid August 15, 1858. Its extreme length will be 325 feet; extreme breadth, 174 feet; general breadth, 132 feet. It is to cost $4,000,000.

—A manufacturer in Boston lately remarked that he had in his employ thirty girls whom he did not pay as much wages as their board amounted to. He was asked how he supposed they managed to live. "Oh," said he, "they are sharp enough for that." If the devil don't get such employers, it will be because he is cheated out of what belongs to him.

—The Boston Traveler recalls the interesting historical fact that Maximilian is the most respectable member of one of the most ancient of the reigning houses of the old world, a house that was at the head of the Holy Roman Empire long before Mexico had been heard of among Christians, and which ruled over Mexico for almost two centuries, from the time that Cortez conquered it for Charles I, (V of Germany,) in 1521, to the death of Charles II, in 1700.

—On Thursday evening, a lady of Troy, N. Y., sitting in her room, was instantaneously oppressed with the conviction that her little son had fallen from the window in his sleeping apartment to the ground below. She repelled the thought as an impossibility. In a few moments more it flashed upon her mind with such force that she was unable to resist it. She hurried to the bedside of her son, and there, to her intense horror, she discovered the lad sleeping upon the window sill, the window open, his head projecting outside—he was on the very point of falling to the pavement below! Who can explain this phenomenon, which is unquestionably true?

—The Judiciary Committee lately sent a confidential person to Nashville to ascertain the relations that existed between J. Wilkes Booth and President Johnson when both were in Nashville, during the latter part of the war. After interrogating many prominent men of both parties, nothing further was discovered than that Booth and the then military governor of Tennessee had no connection with each other whatever. Apropos of this, a Nashville paper says: "Strange to relate, Gen. Grant, who knew that Booth was a rank rebel, and had refused to take the oath, gave him a pass to go to New Orleans in the early part of 1864, writing and signing the document himself."
